Facing the Local Impact of a Struggling Nationwide Economy

In recent months, the economy has shown signs of weakness in areas that disproportionately affect the low-income communities in New York City served by Lawyers Alliance. As the economy continues to struggle, vulnerable populations have greater difficulty establishing basic financial security. Their jobs are jeopardized, their neighborhoods face rampant foreclosure, and assets and investments that are tied to their homes are threatened.

Today, community-based organizations are reinforcing the safety net for working poor families and helping to guard against predatory lending and other unscrupulous businesses that prey on vulnerable populations. To this end, many of Lawyers Alliance’s nonprofit clients are launching innovative programs designed to soften the downturn’s effect on the community. Such inventive solutions often trigger challenging legal questions that Lawyers Alliance staff and volunteer attorneys work to answer.

Ensuring Regulatory Compliance

Programs are often most successful when they are tailored to address and serve a community’s unique needs. The East River Development Alliance (ERDA) works to transform public housing by providing residents with tools for self-sufficiency and economic mobility. Located in Long Island City, ERDA works in Woodside, Ravenswood, Astoria, and Queensbridge Houses, which constitute the largest public housing development in the country. ERDA focuses on four program areas: building wealth, improving education, revitalizing communities and expanding career access. ERDA’s “Debt Diet Support Group” helps participants reduce and eliminate their debt and includes a raffle prize.

to stimulate participation. Lawyers Alliance staff attorneys and pro bono counsel from McDermott Will & Emery LLP are advising ERDA on state regulations and federal tax implications for the proposed program, and with drafting related rules and conditions for the incentives component of the Debt Diet program.

Implementing Collaborations
Nonprofits may address large-scale problems through collaboration. United Way of New York City (UWNYC) recently partnered with The Financial Clinic, Bethex Federal Credit Union, and the Partnership for the Homeless (PFH) to launch MoneyUp, a program that offers working poor families in the South Bronx and in East New York one-to-one financial coaching to help them gain access to mainstream banking, pay down their debt, and build savings. Lawyers Alliance staff attorneys and pro bono counsel from Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP are assisting The Financial Clinic with drafting, reviewing, and finalizing a range of agreements related to MoneyUp, including grant agreements with UWNYC and operational agreements related to MoneyUp collaborators.

Structuring New Organizations
As communities across the country find themselves in similar straits, the time is ripe for new, far-reaching solutions. The Fair Mortgage Collaborative (FMC) seeks to develop a common national platform through which lending organizations can make fair and safe mortgage loans to low- and moderate-income individuals and families. FMC’s national platform includes a trademarked certification process to identify lending organizations certified to be fair and safe and that support lending activities to low- and moderate-income, as well as minority, homeowners and purchasers. Volunteer attorneys from Stroock & Stroock & Lavan LLP assisted FMC by reviewing FMC’s business plan, implementing an organizational structure, reviewing FMC’s lending standards used to certify qualifying lending members, and providing legal guidance on the proposed certification program.

Seyfarth Shaw Partner Robert S. Whitman, Esq. to Receive Award for Pro Bono Leadership

Each year Lawyers Alliance presents its special Award for Pro Bono Leadership to a law firm partner who has performed exemplary pro bono service to nonprofit organizations. This year, we honor Robert S. Whitman, Esq., in recognition of his 11 years of outstanding service as a volunteer attorney. Mr. Whitman, a partner at Seyfarth Shaw LLP, has stood out as a vital resource for nonprofit organizations in need of quality – and often urgent – guidance regarding employment law matters. In Brief

Charter School Legal Assessment Day

On March 26, 2008, Lawyers Alliance unveiled a special pro bono project to benefit New York City charter schools and the children they serve. Representatives from six newly forming and 10 existing schools and 27 pro bono attorneys joined at Pfizer’s offices for a series of educational and assessment activities. Staff from Lawyers Alliance, the Pfizer Legal Division, the law firm of Kaye Scholer LLP, and New York City Center for Charter School Excellence presented programs on board conduct and operations, the new Form 990 and other financial reporting requirements, leases and facilities issues, employment law, relationships with “friends of” organizations, and contracts with charter management organizations. The participating charter schools completed a questionnaire to help them assess their legal needs and discuss these needs with a pro bono attorney.

The next step is for Lawyers Alliance and its pro bono counsel to provide the charter schools with pro bono legal assistance on ongoing legal matters identified through this assessment day. For more information on Lawyers Alliance’s work with charter schools, please contact Staff Attorney Lindsey Jones at (212) 219-1800 ext. 228 or ljones@lawyersalliance.org.

With New York City home to one of the most diverse populations, it is natural that many Lawyers Alliance client organizations strive to increase the political clout of their constituencies by mobilizing active participation in the electoral process.

How do such organizations effectively carry out that role and stay within the legal limitations on political activity?

There are several appropriate ways to sustain an active voice in the electoral process. For example, 501(c)(3) organizations ARE permitted to:

- Conduct nonpartisan programs to educate candidates and the general public on issues
- Publish nonpartisan legislative scorecards, which indicate how legislators voted on particular legislative issues. The scorecard should not comment on a candidate’s qualifications or suggest support for or opposition to their candidacy
- Prepare candidate questionnaires and create nonpartisan voter guides. Questions must be framed in a way that does not suggest right or wrong answers or reflect your organization’s agenda or preferences on political issues. The questionnaires must be distributed to all candidates
- Sponsor candidate debates or forums that are open to all candidates and include a broad range of nonpartisan questions
- Conduct nonpartisan voter registration drives. You may tell people how to register to vote, the dates of the primary and general election, and how to find out where to vote
- Sell, trade, or rent mailing lists to candidates at fair market value, if made available to all candidates

There are, however, limitations on activities. For instance, 501(c)(3) ARE NOT permitted to:

- Endorse candidates for public office, whether it is for local, state, or national office
- Make any campaign contributions
- Make expenditures on behalf of candidates
- Restrict rental of their mailing lists and facilities to certain candidates
- Ask candidates to sign pledges on any issue (which would imply tacit endorsement)
- Increase the volume or amount of incumbent criticism as election time approaches
- Publish or communicate anything that explicitly or implicitly favors or opposes a candidate
- Allow a candidate to campaign at your meetings or events

Lawyers Alliance clients are often engaged in “getting out the vote” and making special efforts to mobilize groups that historically have been underrepresented during election season. Our staff and volunteer attorneys can provide legal help to such clients on a range of matters from office leases and employment law issues to legal guidance on the laws and regulations pertinent to its civic participation and voter registration efforts. For example, Lawyers Alliance assisted the New York Votes collaboration with structuring its voter mobilization and education project so as to protect the tax-exempt status of the participating 501(c)(3) organizations. Similarly, volunteer attorneys from Arent Fox LLP helped prepare a collaboration agreement with Human Services Council of New York City, National Association of Social Workers, and a paid consultant to conduct a joint nonpartisan voter registration and get-out-the-vote drive.

For more information on lobbying and political activity by 501(c)(3) organizations, please contact Staff Attorney Elizabeth Perez at (212) 219-1800 ext. 232 or eperez@lawyersalliance.org.
